LIONS ASKED TO SPONSOR SCENIC LOOP.

Master Chester Deen of Austin entertained the Lions at their Tuesday luncheon. Chester plays two musical instruments at the same time, the mandolin and the French harp. His instrumental and vocal renditions were well received. Thanks, Chester, come again.

Mr. D. E. Colb, of the State Highway and Park Department, presented a plan to the Lions which should be of more than passing interest to Hondo and Medina County, as well as San Antonio, Bandera and Tarpley. A triple scenic loop drive is being planned out of San Antonio to Bandera and Tarpley, then back to San Antonio via Uvalde, Sabinal or Hondo. Naturally Hondo would be interested especially in the shorter route from Tarpley to Hondo. A committee consisting of Supt. Saathoff, Mr. P. Jungman and Mr. Garland Martin was appointed to get in touch with the citizens of the Tarpley community to point out the benefits to be derived from the proposed drive.

Mr. Frank Cunningham of San Antonio corroborated statements of Mr. Colb, showing the monetary value of state parks and good highways leading to them. If this loop can be effected, we feel that it will add greatly to Hondo's business and prestige. Some of the finest mountain and river and lake scenery in the State is found along this route. Why not follow the example of other states and "cash in" on our scenery and climate?

Miss Doris Haegelin of Rio Medina and Miss Bernice Wurzach of Cliff, accompanied by Mr. M. T. Schuchart of Cliff were guests of Mr. R. A. Haegelin and family Sunday. The young ladies remained over several days for a visit with Miss Florence Haegelin.

Miss Eleanor Heyen entertained Tuesday night with a Slumber Party honoring her house guest, Miss Mildred Heyen, of Lockhart. The guests were Misses Gladys Fusselman, Ruby Neuman, Lillian Schroeder, Johanna Weber of Utopia and the Misses Heyen.

Judge and Mrs. L. J. Brucks, who have been visiting their sons, Lewis and Charles, in Chicago for the past several weeks, are expected to arrive home by the end of the week. They had planned to leave Chicago Tuesday.

Prof. J. G. Barry is back from the summer session of the State University at Austin and is supervising some much needed improvements on the school grounds. Mrs. Barry and baby are still at Smithville.

Mr. Milton of Austin, connected with the Adjustment Department of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, with headquarters at St. Louis, was in town Thursday in the interest of his company.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter are moving their household goods back from Del Rio and will soon be numbered again among the residents of Hondo. They will occupy their cottage in the Fly Addition.

Miss Lula Hines of San Marcos and Misses Marian and Gussie McDonald, who are teachers in San Marcos College, were guests of Miss Hines' sister, Mrs. M. H. Muennink, last week.

Mrs. Harry Crouch returned home Saturday from a several week's trip to Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City. At Wichita Falls Mrs. Crouch visited her sister, Miss Marie Runkle, who was ill.

A telegram to relatives here from Mr. Isaac Wilson and family, who left here on Thursday of last week, reports their safe arrival in Los Angeles, California, on Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Koch and children returned last Thursday from a week's visit with Mrs. Koch's sister, Mrs. John Holland, at Victoria and with other relatives at Houston.

Mrs. Alfred H. Mechler and Misses Irene Mechler, Olga Pulch and Ethel Bendele of Dundas spent Wednesday in San Antonio.

Miss Johanna Weber of Utopia is the guest of Miss Lillian Schroeder this week.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Oklahoma

E. P. CHASE, PUBLISHER OF THE ATLANTIC (IOWA) NEWS-TELEGRAPH, SAYS: THAT talking hard times has a peculiar psychological effect. Nothing spreads like a tale of calamity. The most of suffering humanity is a good deal like the old lady who said she was "poorly thank the Lord."

If one goes down the street of his home town, feeling as fit as a fiddle and looking the part, and a dozen friends tell him he looks bad and must be sick, he will be sick before the day is over. And constariwise, if he goes down the street feeling not up to himself and a dozen people remark on how well he is looking, he will be well before the day is done.

Such is the influence of psychology and nowhere is that influence felt so keenly as in business. If everyone cries calamity, we will likely have calamity. If everyone decries it, its spectre is more likely to vanish.

The men who are successful in business, as a general rule, are so engrossed in attending to their own affairs in an intelligent manner that they have little time to think about poor conditions.

EXCEPT IN VERY RARE CASES WHERE SOME UNTOWARD THING BEFALLS A COMMUNITY, LEAVING IMPAIRED FINANCIAL ABILITY AND DECREASED TRADE IN ITS WAKE, CONDITIONS ARE LARGELY WHAT WE MAKE THEM.

TEXAS AND TEXANS

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

By Will H. Mayes.
"All Texans for All Texas"

Make It Ten Million

Texas has a population of 5,810,683 according to the 1930 census figures, an increase since 1920 of nearly 25 per cent. Texas can have 10,000,000 people by 1940, if Texans will work together to that end. Half the energy and publicity that has been expended in politics by politicians and the press in the last thirty days, if used persistently for building up Texas, can turn the trick. It is up to the press to do it, for the politicians can't be counted on for much help. They are too busy boosting themselves. If the papers would ignore them or give them only the amount of publicity to which their merits entitle them most of them would soon stop their rantings and engage in something more useful than berating each other.

The trend of population now is clearly to the Southwest. Texas is attracting attention from many thousands who are anxious to escape the winter rigors and the summer prostrations of the North and East. There are other multiplied thousands anxious to cast their fortunes in a country where development has only fairly begun and to share in the prosperity of a rapidly growing section.

Texas needs only to let the world know what it has achieved in the past, what it stands ready to do in the future to increase its population by millions. But this can not be done by merely shouting from the housetops the greatness of the State. The world must be invited to see Texas, and the invitation must be of a kind that will bring the people here in vast numbers to learn at first hand what Texas has to offer those who will cast their fortunes in the State. The proposed Centennial Exposition, if conducted along lines commensurate with the growth and the greatness of the State, would furnish the occasion around which to hang the publicity that Texas so much needs to attract home-seekers by the thousands.

Unifying Sectional Efforts
The recent movement on the part of officers of three sectional commercial organizations of Texas to establish a central office or clearing house at Austin for the general dissemination of publicity in regard to the State should result in such a unification of effort as will eliminate much waste and duplication, should the Austin office receive the wholehearted support of the entire State and should its affairs be impartially administered. There is a need for sectional effort in Texas because of the size of the State and the great diversification of interests, but there is even greater reason for the Chambers of Commerce to let the world know that there is a unified interest in the upbuilding of all Texas.

Recently the New England States which have been making slow progress with each state fighting its own battles unaided, have organized a New England Council that has brought new impetus and life into the entire New England section. Texas needs to keep reminded that "in union there is strength."

Using Texas Gas

It is stated that the 1,000 mile gas line from Moore county, Texas to Chicago will cost $100,000,000, contracts for construction having already been let and that the companies supplying the gas through a subsidiary organization have over 7,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas available with which they will supply more than 50 cities of the country. Who says that the natural resources of the great Southwest have not as yet been "touched?"

State Education Board

If the recently created State Educational Board succeeds in co-ordinating the school system of Texas and cutting out unnecessary duplication in the higher schools it will make a great step toward reducing the cost of education in this State. With present transportation facilities there is no reason why so many State-supported schools of the higher classes

HOME-COMING CELEBRATION AT D'HANIS.

D'Hanis is preparing for their Home-Coming Celebration which will take place on Sunday, August 3.

The business firms of this wide-awake little town realize what this annual gathering means to their community and have all joined again this year in their full page invitation to you to visit their town on Sunday, August 3, see your friends and relatives, enjoy the dinner prepared for you at the Parish Hall at 11:30 A. M., attend the ball game between the D'Hanis Pirates and Castroville Indians at 3:30 P. M., eat supper with the ladies at the Parish Hall at 6:00 P. M. and stay over and enjoy the music and dance at Herman Son's Hall, beginning at 8:00 o'clock at night.

You are all invited and will be given a hearty welcome.

Caught Off Base

This columnist recently stated that the higher courts of Texas have all adjourned for a three months vacation forced upon them by the legislature, when he should have said "forced upon them by the constitution." Representative Petsch of Fredericksburg, writes to ask a correction, stating that "all courts over which the legislature has any control have had their vacations cut down to thirty days." It was an inadvertent error on the part of the writer, who has no disposition to do injustice to a body, which as Mr. Petsch correctly says, is "too often abused."

Why Georgia Marble

This columnist has not seen the resolution adopted by the Texas Bar Association to erect a suitable memorial to the first three Justices of the Supreme Court of this State, but if the report that has been published that it is to be of Georgia marble is correct, Judge C. M. Cureton, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, who introduced the resolution and advocated the erection of the monument, will likely take a vigorous stand for the use of Texas marble, since Judge Cureton is a strong believer in the use of Texas products and knows that Texas has some of the most durable and most beautiful marble to be found in the world.

Pure Water Supply

The Cuero Record makes public the fact that the water supply of the city is found to be 10 per cent pure on tests made of samples sent to the State Health Department. This suggests that it would be a good idea for every town to have its water supply tested at regular periods and the tests made public as a health measure. Good water is an essential of good health.

Van Horn Hotel

Those who have gone from Texas to the Carlsbad Cavern and have had occasion to complain of the lack of facilities at Van Horn are reminded that Van Horn has heard the complaint and erected a 65 room modern hotel at a cost of $200,000.

Floresville Melons

The Floresville Chronicle-Journal reminds a melon-loving world that Wilson county has done its part toward satisfying the public appetite by shipping more than 1,000 carloads of melons this season.

Sulphur Valuations Increased

Sulphur companies operating in Wharton county this year rendered their holding at New Gulf at $11,000,000, which was $2,000,000 in excess of the valuation fixed last year by the board of equalization. The Commissioners' Court raised the valuation to $32,000,000 although a citizens' committee urged that it be placed at $50,000,000 based on evidence at a hearing last year.

Bridge at Presidio

The Santa Fe has begun the construction of a bridge across the Rio Grande at Presidio, thus getting ready for the business that road will do between Texas and Mexico. There is a vast country in the Big Bend section of Texas and across the river in Mexico that is awaiting development.

Profits in Poultry

A Bee county poultryman who keeps books finds that he made a profit of 426.12 from a flock of 263 white leghorn hens during the first six months of the year. The feed was all charged at retail prices and the feed cost of egg production was 11.54 cents per dozen eggs.

the ladies at the Parish Hall at 6:00 P. M. and stay over and enjoy the music and dance at Herman Son's Hall, beginning at 8:00 o'clock at night.

You are all invited and will be given a hearty welcome.

MRS. L. E. KOLLMAN, JR., HOSTESS.

Mrs. L. E. Kollman, Jr., entertained the Junior Bridge Club on Tuesday afternoon. Lavender bachelorette buttons were used for the floral note about the rooms. Mrs. Carle, at the conclusion of the games, held high score. Those present were Mesdames Wood Cameron, Barnitz Carle, Robt. Kollman, Elmer Leinweber, Garland Martin, Richard Reily, John Worden, Charles Monkhouse and Eugene Modiano.

A THOUGHT FOR SUNDAY

By Amos R. Wells.

SILENCERS FOR AIRPLANES.

Good news came from Hiram Maxim's factory in Hartford, which, since Mr. Maxim's remarkable invention, has been making silencers for fire-arms. When one of these silencers is added to a pistol, the noise of its explosion is only a mild putt, heard but a few feet away. The invention is, of course, most useful in war, rendering it very difficult to locate enemy batteries; also a man may be shot, and people in full sight of the crime may hear no sound of the firing.

This fact has determined Mr. Maxim to discontinue the manufacture of silencers, but he will turn his attention to silencing airplane engines. His work will restore peace to the skies. This use of the invention is a real benefit, while the initial application of it was a curse.

How quick is the devil to utilize every means for evil, and how slow are the righteous in doing the same! Let us become more enterprising in all good. Let us apply to Christ's work every improvement devised by skill and wisdom. Let us not allow Satan to outspeed Christianity.

N.Y. Woman Lost 14 Pounds of Fat

ONE 85 CENT BOTTLE OF KRUSCHEN SALTS DID IT

"I am starting on my second bottle of Kruschen Salts and am real pleased with results. I take it for reducing and so far have lost 14 pounds and I think it is doing wonders for me. I do not feel so tired evenings when I get home from work."

A generous bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at W. H. Windrow's or any drug store in America—take ½ teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on starches and walk a little each day.

Before the bottle is empty surplus fat is leaving you—indolence changes to activity—you'll feel younger—eyes will brighten—step grow spry. Millions know this—you ought to know it. Kruschen Salts is the ideal treatment for constipation, indigestion, headaches, nervousness and acidity.

A DESTROYER OF YOUR FINEST WOOLENS.

Like the goat, a moth has strange taste, says a local official of the Gulf Refining Company. But unlike the goat, the damage done by moths runs into millions of dollars every year.

Moths hide and breed in dark places. They are voracious eaters of your finest woolens, mohairs and carpets.

A thorough and thrifty housewife will spray the cupboards, furniture and carpets thoroughly every month with the modern type of insect spray, developed and marketed by the large oil refining companies during the past three or four years. The better grades of these insect sprays can be easily purchased from your grocer, hardware dealer or druggist. They are advertised frequently in this paper. Regular spraying will save that new coat and that lovely fur—not to mention your husband's best suits.

THE OINTMENT OF CHARITY.

By Arthur B. Rhinow.

A friend of mine told me of a gangster who, without ceremony, entered a poor Italian home that had suffered severely from misfortune, peeled off a "high" bill from a large roll, handed it to the astonished mother with the words "That's for you," and disappeared.

The galleries will, no doubt, applaud. "What a good heart the fellow has after all," they will say with trembling voices. If, within a week, they were to be on a jury trying the gangster, they would probably vote "not guilty."

And it is quite possible the gangster felt badly after his kind act. If he did not broadcast his charity, he certainly held flattering communion with himself. The loud speaker of conscience was considerably softened.

But that loud speaker will not remain softened. To be charitable with other people's money never yet has received the sanction of our true selves.

We hope the gift helped the poor but we know the heartaches of the giver were not cured by his charity. Benevolences, though they run into millions, cannot atone for shabby dealings in acquiring fortunes.

There is but one way: Get right with God.

If the tap-tap-tap of the conscience makes us miserable, then let us throw ourselves upon the mercy of God in all honesty of soul. The way of contrition is not the easy way. It is the surgeon's knife and not a pleasant ointment. But it brings peace to our souls. Then charity carries the blessing of heaven.

FRIENDS SEE EACH OTHER AGAIN.

The story given below, with a picture of Mrs. Beyer and Mrs. Haby, taken in the former's beautiful flower garden, appeared in the Milwaukee Journal of July 20, 1920, and should prove interesting reading to a large number of Medina County friends. Needless to say, Mrs. Haby, with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Zerr, Mr. Zerr and their two little daughters, Ruth Janet and Doris May, are enjoying their visit in the northern city.

'MAIL FRIENDS' HAVE REUNION.

2 Women Corresponded 30 Years Before They Actually Met.

Mrs. Alma Beyer, wife of Dr. Christian H. Beyer, 1789 Humboldt av., and Mrs. Lena Haby, Rio Medina, Texas, "knew each other" for 30 years before they met in Texas in 1923. Then their friendship continued for seven years more and Friday they had their second meeting in nearly two generations when Mrs. Haby and her family came to Milwaukee on a two weeks' vacation. The unique acquaintance started by mail in 1893, when Mrs. Beyer and Mrs. Haby were both girls of 16. For years the two unseen friends continued to write across a distance of 1,200 miles. And about 18 years ago their daughters, Miss Ruth Beyer and Mrs. Elvira Zehr, caught the spirit of the "friendship in correspondence" and carried the idea into the second generation.

Began With Newspaper Ad

Miss Beyer and Mrs. Zehr gained nearly 10 years on their mothers, however, for they began writing when they were only 8 years old. They wrote each other for 11 years before the meeting in Rio Medina in 1923. Mrs. Zehr, who is in Milwaukee with Mrs. Haby, is also seeing Miss Beyer for the second time.

"I am of German parentage," said Mrs. Haby in telling how the friendship started, "and was subscribing to the old Milwaukee Herald in 1893. The news of Milwaukee was interesting, especially when written in German and I wanted to know more about your city. I finally got the idea of putting an ad in the Herald asking for someone who could write German to tell me about Milwaukee."

"About 12 replies came to me from German people in Milwaukee. The one which Mrs. Beyer wrote was the most interesting and was the only one which led to a permanent correspondence."

Kept First Letter

Mrs. Beyer's and Mrs. Haby's first letters were written in German, but after a while they changed to English. Mrs. Haby still has the first letter which Mrs. Beyer wrote to her.

The two women wrote once a week for a long time, but later their letters lessened to one or two a month. Calculating only one a month, however, for 37 years, the two friends, who are now meeting for only the second time have really "talked" to each other at least 444 times.

"What did we write about?" says Mrs. Haby. "Well, I told Mrs. Beyer all about the cotton plantations. Texas rattlesnakes, Mexicans and each new youngster who arrived after I was married. There were lots of things to talk about."

Exchange Presents

"And I'd tell Mrs. Haby about Milwaukee snowstorms in winter, and, of course, about each of my youngsters," replied Mrs. Beyer. "Every year for many years we'd also send Christmas presents to each other."

"When I met Mrs. Haby in Texas, seven years ago it seemed immediately as if I had known her personally all my life."

"There were no formalities," her friend added. "I called Mrs. Beyer 'Alma' and she called me 'Lena' right away. We didn't need an introduction. Anyway, pictures which we sent back and forth had introduced me long before."

TO ERADICATE BERMUDA GRASS.

Bermuda grass is one of the most valuable pasture grasses in the Southern States; but in cultivated land it is a troublesome weed. To eradicate it, take advantage of its weak point. The plant can not withstand prolonged shade, and therefore it can be controlled by crops that produce dense shade, alternated with crops that can be planted in clear rows and thoroughly cultivated in two directions. Another weakness of Bermuda grass is its inability to withstand severe cold. Consequently, plowing of infested land to expose the roots to winter freezing is recommended for the northern part of the area in which Bermuda grass grows.

ZEN of the Y. D.

of Novel of the Foothills

By ROBERT STEAD

Author of "The Cow Rancher," "The Householder," "Neighbors," etc.

was in his long walks that Grant had the only real comfort of his new life. To be sure, it was not like rooming in the foothills; there was not the breath of the Chinook, nor the silence of the mighty valleys. But there was movement and freedom and the city offered him the foot-attractions in which the foothills had not competed; faultlessly neat parks and lawns; splashes of color and color; spraying fountains and fountains of music. He reflected that some merciful principle of compensation has made no quite perfect and no place entirely undesirable. He remembered the toll of his life in the saddle; the physical hardship, the strain of hours and broken weather. And now, in a different way, he was in a saddle, and he did not know what strain was the greater. He began to have a higher regard for the men in the saddle of business. The world saw only their success, it may be, their pretense of success. But there was a different strain from all that, which each one of them could have told for himself.

It was this evening when his mind had suddenly turned into old channels by the finding of the newspaper dealing with the wedding of his daughter. Grant walked far into the outskirts of the city, paying little attention to his course. It was late in the evening; the leaves lay thick on the walk and through the parks; there was in all the air that strange, sweet dreaminess of the dying summer. Grant had tried vainly to keep his thoughts away from his wife. The past had come back on him, had rather engulfed him in that little newspaper clipping. He himself wondered where she was, whether nearly a year of married life had shown her the folly of her decision. He took it for granted that the decision had been folly, and he arrived at that position without any reason upon Transley. Only—Zen! Zen! Zen! Sooner or later she would discover the tragedy of that fact, yet he told himself he was big enough to hope she might never discover it. It would be best that she could forget him, as he had—almost forgotten her. There was no doubt in his mind that she would be best. And yet there was a sadness in thinking of her, and hoping that some day—He never able to complete the thought.

Miss Bruce, I Beg Your Pardon. I Am Glad to See You.

He had been walking down a street toward his home; the bare trees and into a sky clear and blue with first chill presage of winter. A step fell unheeded by his side; a girl passed, hesitated, then turned and spoke.

"You are preoccupied, Mr. Grant," she said. "I beg your pardon. I am glad to see you." Even at that moment he had been thinking of Zen, and she put more cordiality in her words than he intended. But he had grown to have considerable respect for her own account, for this un-pretentious girl who was not afraid of him, and found that she was what he needed. "A good head," she could take a hard view; she was absolutely not easily flustered.

Her step had fallen into swing with his, and he did not often visit our part of the city," she essayed.

"Will you come to see?" she turned with her at a corner, and went up a narrow street lying in dead leaves. Friendly domestic glimpses could be caught through unblinded windows.

"This is our home," she said, stopping before a little gate. Grant's eye followed the pathway to a cottage set back among the trees. "I live here with my sister and brother and mother. Father is dead," she went on hurriedly, as though wishing to place before him a quick digest of the family affairs, "and we keep up the home by living on with mother as boarders; that is, Grace and I do. Hubert is still in high school. Won't you come in?"

He followed her up the path and into a little hall, lighted only by chance rays falling through a half-opened door. She did not switch on the current, and Grant was aware of a comfortable sense of her nearness, quite distinct from any office experience, as she took his hat. In the living-room her mother received him with visible surprise. She was not old, but widowhood and the cares of a young family had whitened her hair before its time.

"We are glad to see you, Mr. Grant," she said. "It is an unexpected pleasure. Big business men do not often—" "Mr. Grant is different," her daughter interrupted, lightly. "I found him wandering the streets and I just—retrieved him."

"I think I am different," he admitted, as his eye took in the surroundings, which he appraised quickly as modest comfort, attained through many little economies and makeshifts. "Phyllis is a great help to me—and Grace," the mother observed. "I hope she is a good girl in the office."

At this moment Grace and Hubert came in from the picture-show together, and the conversation turned to lighter topics. Mrs. Bruce insisted on serving tea and cake, and when Grant found that he must go Phyllis accompanied him to the gate.

"This all seems so funny," she was saying. "You are a very remarkable man."

"I think I once passed a similar opinion about you."

She extended her hand, and he held it for a moment. "I have not changed my first opinion," he said, as he released her fingers and turned quickly down the pavement.

CHAPTER XI

Grant's first visit to the home of his private stenographer was not his last, and the news leaked out, as it is sure to do in such cases. The social set confessed to being on the point of being shocked. Two schools of criticism developed over the five o'clock tea tables; one held that Grant was a gay dog who would settle down and marry in his class when he had had his fling, and the other that Phyllis Bruce was an artful hussy who was quite ready to sell herself for the Grant millions. And there were so many eligible young women on the market, although none of them were described as artful hussies!

Grant's behavior, however, placed him under no cloud in so far as social opportunities were concerned; on the contrary, he found himself being showered with invitations, most of which he managed to decline on the grounds of pressure of business. When such an excuse would have been too transparent he accepted and made the best of it, and he found no lack of encouragement in the one or two incipient amorous flurries which resulted. From such positions he always succeeded in extricating himself, with a quiet smile at the vagaries of life. He had to admit that some of the young women whom he had met had charms of more than passing moment; he might easily enough find himself chasing the rainbow.

But his attention was at once to be turned to very different matters. A stock market, erratic for some days, went suddenly into a paroxysm. Grant escaped with as little loss as possible for himself and his clients, and after three sleepless nights called his staff together. They crowded into the board-room, curious, apprehensive, almost frightened, and he looked over them with an emotion that was quite new to his experience. Even in the aloofness which their standards had made it necessary for him to adopt there had grown up in his heart, quite unnoticed, a tender, sweet foliage of love for these men and women who were a part of his machine. Now, as he looked in their faces he realized how, like little children, they leaned on him—how, like little children, they feared his power and his displeasure—how, perhaps, like little children, they had learned to love him, too. He realized, as he had never done before, that they were children; that here and there in the mass of humanity is one who was born to lead, but the great mass itself must be children always, doing as they are bid.

"My friends," he managed to say, "we suddenly find ourselves in tremendous times. Some of you know my attitude toward this business in which we are engaged. I did not seek it; I tried to avoid it; yet, when the responsibility was forced upon me I accepted that responsibility. I gave up the life I enjoyed, the environment in which I found delight, the friends I loved. Well—our nation is now in a somewhat similar position. It has to go into a business which it did not seek, of which it does not approve, but which fate has thrust upon it. It has to break off the current of its life and turn it into undreamed-of channels, and we, as individuals who make up the nation, must do the same. I have already enlisted, and expect that within a few hours I shall be in uniform. Some of you are single men of military age; you will, I am sure, take similar steps. For the rest—the business will be wound up as soon as possible, so that you may be released for some form of national service. You will all receive three months' salary in lieu of notice. Mr. Murdoch will look after the details. When that has been done my wealth, or such part of it as remains, will be placed at the disposal of the government. If we win it will be well invested in a good cause; if we lose, it would have been lost anyway."

No one knew just how the meeting broke up, but Grant had a confused remembrance of many handclaps and some tears. He was not sure that he had not, perhaps, added one or two to the flow, but they were all tears of friendship and of an emotion born of high resolve.

As he stood in his own office again, trying to get the events of these last few days into some sort of perspective, Phyllis Bruce entered. He motioned dumbly to a chair, but she came and stood by his desk. Her face was very white and her lips trembled with the words she tried to utter.

"I can't go," she managed to say at length.

"Can't go? I don't understand?" "Hubert has joined," she said.

"Hubert, the boy! Why, he is only in school—" "He is sixteen, and large for his age. He came home confessing, and saying it was his first lie, and the first important thing he ever did without consulting mother. He said he knew he wouldn't be able to stand it if he told her first."

"Foolish, but heroic," Grant commented. "Be proud of him. It takes more than wisdom to be heroic."

"And Grace is going to England. She was taking nursing, you know, and so gets a preference. We can't all leave mother."

He found it difficult to speak. "You wanted to go to the front?" he managed.

"Of course; where else?" Her hand was on the desk; his own slipped over until it closed on it.

"You are a little heroine," he murmured.

"No, I'm not. I'm a little fool to tell you this, but how can I stay—why should I stay—when you are gone?"

She was looking down, but after her confession she raised her eyes to his, and he wondered that he had never known how beautiful she was. He could have taken her in his arms, but something, with the power of invisible chains, held him back. In that supreme moment a vision swam before him; a vision of a mountain stream backed by tawny foothills, and a girl as beautiful as even this Phyllis, who, had wrapped him in her arms, and said, "We must go and forget." And he had not forgotten.

When he did not respond she drew herself slowly away. "You will hate me," she said.

"That is impossible," he corrected, quickly. "I am very sorry if I have let you think more than I intended. I care for you very, very much indeed. I care for you so much that I will not let you think I care for you more. Can you understand that?"

"Yes. You like me, but you love some one else."

He was disconcerted by her intuition and the terse frankness with which she stated the case.

"I will take you into my confidence, Phyllis, if I may," he said at length. "I do like you; I did love some one else. And that old attachment is still so strong that it would be hardly fair—it would be hardly fair—"

"Why didn't you marry her?" she demanded.

"Because some one else did."

"Oh!" Her hands found his this time. "I'm sorry," she said. "Sorry I brought this up—sorry I raised these memories. But now you—who have known—will know—"

"I know—I know," he murmured, raising his fingers to his lips.

"Time, they say, is a healer of all wounds. Perhaps—"

"No. It is better that you should forget. Only, I shall see you off; I shall wave my handkerchief to you; I shall smile on you in the crowd. Then—you will forget."

Four years of war had added four years to the life of a man, according to the record in the family Bible, if he happen to spring from stock in which that sacred document is preserved. But four years of war add twenty years to the gray matter behind the eyes—eyes which learn to dream and ponder strangely, and sometimes to shine with a hardness that has no part with youth. When Captain Grant and Sergeant Linder stepped off the train at Grant's old city there was, however, little to suggest the ageing process that commonly went on among the soldiers in the great war. Grant had twice stopped an enemy bullet, but his fine figure and sunburned health now gave no evidence of those experiences. Linder counted himself lucky to carry only an empty sleeve.

POTH INCREASES POULTRY GROUP.

Membership of the Poth unit in Poultry Producers' Association of Texas was more than doubled at a meeting there Saturday with 45 farmers in attendance, according to Dr. E. H. Orchard, manager of the association, with headquarters here.

The unit formerly had 14 members, and now has 32. R. B. Klecka was elected president; John Bednarz, secretary-treasurer and O. R. Becker and Kasals, directors. Nine thousand laying hens are represented in the Poth unit, Dr. Orchard said.

At a preliminary meeting in Hondo Thursday night, Yancey reported the organization of a unit with P. H. Roensch as president; Ed Bodeman, vice president and C. C. Lynn, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. J. N. Wilson of Moore is a director in the Yancey unit, and Geo. Heilgman is the other director. There are 35 members.

Chris Herry, New Braunfels, president of the association, visited Kingsbury and organized a local. A. B. Gonsbach is president and L. A. Willmann, vice president.

A. B. Fricke is secretary-treasurer, and R. E. L. Adams, W. S. Chrisco and Frank Imhoff, directors. Herry reported another meeting will be held Thursday when the membership will be increased to 25 or 30.

There will be several large producers of turkeys in the Kingsbury unit, Herry reported, and the association is working for facilities here to handle both dressed chickens and dressed turkeys for members, and to cold storage them in waiting for the best time to market.—San Antonio Express.

IN CASE OF TORNADO

If a tornado is threatening, the best thing to do is to move as rapidly as possible at right angles to the direction in which the storm appears to be coming, says the Weather Bureau of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In an automobile it is easy to run away from the storm, as its velocity of travel is only 25 to 30 miles per hour. Often the approach of the storm may be noticed at some distance. Refuge to the north of the tornado's track is usually safer than the same distance to the south. If quick escape is impossible get into a tornado cellar, or into the cellar of a frame house. The safest spot in the cellar is usually close to the wall on the side from which the storm is approaching. This is most frequently the southwest corner. If the house moves or breaks apart, the debris is likely to fall clear of this corner. If there is no protection below ground level, pick out some repressed location and lie flat, face down, holding to anything handy. Tornadoes are most likely to occur in May and June, says the Weather Bureau.

SPRAY FOR LEAF HOPPER.

Bordeaux mixture has been found to be an effective remedy for the control of the potato leaf hopper and the disease known as "hopper burn" which accompanies attack by this pest, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Leaf hopper may migrate from the early to the late crop, and spraying should begin when the pests first appear. The spray should be a fine mist and should thoroughly cover the plants, including the undersides of the leaves. Each side of every row should be sprayed. When leaf hoppers are abundant, three applications should be made, and four are sometimes necessary in hot, dry summers. Dusting with commercial copper-lime dusts is also effective.

Meeting the Needs of Millions of People

The low-priced automobile has brought greater opportunity and added hours of recreation to millions of men and women.

BECAUSE the automobile is such an important factor in the lives and prosperity of so many people, the purpose of the Ford Motor Company is something more than the mere manufacture of a motor car.

There is no service in simply setting up a machine or a plant and letting it turn out goods. The service extends into every detail of the business—design, production, the wages paid and the selling price. All are a part of the plan.

The Ford Motor Company looks upon itself as charged with making an automobile that will meet the needs of millions of people and to provide it at a low price. That is its mission. That is its duty and its obligation to the public.

The search for better ways of doing things is never-ending. There is ceaseless, untiring effort to find new methods and new machines that will save steps and time in manufacturing. The Ford plants are, in reality, a great mechanical university, dedicated to the advancement of industry. Many manufacturers come to see and share the progress made.

The greatest progress comes by never standing still. Today's methods, however successful, can never be taken as wholly right. They represent simply the best efforts of the moment. Tomorrow must bring an improvement in the methods of the day before. Hard work usually finds the way.

Once it was thought impossible to cast gray iron by the endless chain method. All precedent was against it and every previous experiment had failed. But fair prices to the public demanded that wasteful methods be eliminated. Finally the way was found.

A better way of making axle shafts saved thirty-six million dollars in four years. A new method of cutting crankcases reduced the cost by $500,000 a year. The perfection of a new machine saved a similar amount on such a little thing as one bolt. Then electric welding was developed to make many bolts unnecessary and to increase structural strength.

Just a little while ago, an endless chain conveyor almost four miles long was installed at the Rouge plant. This conveyor has a daily capacity of 300,000 parts weighing more than 2,000,000 pounds. By substituting the tireless, unvarying machine for tasks formerly done by hand, it has made the day's work easier for thousands of workers and saved time and money in the manufacture of the car.

All of these things are done in the interest of the public—so that the benefits of reliable, economical transportation may be placed within the means of every one.

School Heads and Press Serve People, Medina County Man

Superintendents at A. & M. COLLEGE STATION, July 28

"Superintendents of public instruction and the press, in so far as the term applies to the men and women who conduct the local rural papers, serve the same people,"

Davis, Hondo, editor of the Hondo Anvil Herald, and president of the Agricultural Writers' Conference said Tuesday morning in discussion "The Relation of the Press and School People," from the standpoint of the press, before meeting of county superintendents at the A. & M. College of Texas.

"Superintendents are chosen for the people," he continued, "therefore, are servants of the people. Being compensated from public funds for their service at a salary, their livelihood is assured, the time being and their chief concern is in rendering the service which they are employed on."

On the other hand, the press must sell services to the public at a living wage as it renders that service, and therefore, must render a service which touches the lives, perhaps of not many people but from many angles than do the superintendents.

"A proper appreciation of the situation will save the superintendents from railing into the grievous error of feeling, when some of his editorial plans do not receive the public he thinks they should, that his editing is 'hard-boiled,' without sympathy for the cause of education and do not want to co-operate with him," the speaker pointed out. "Neither the superintendent feel that the editor is wholly mercenary when he insists that he is entitled to first consideration when a purchase of printing is to be made for his office."

"Constructive news is appreciated and welcomed by the editor, words of his calling."

"The Relations of the Press and School People" from the standpoint of the school people was discussed by Wallace Gregg, superintendent of Wise county schools. "Vocational Agriculture as a Factor in the Education of the Farm Problem," was analyzed by C. L. Davis, State Department of Education, Dr. Wayne Southall of George Peabody School for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., discussed various rural problems confronting teachers of that section of the country, in addition to round table discussion.

Registration for the second day of the meeting totaled sixty-five for the morning session.—Orran Daily Eagle, July 29.

SCOUTS HEAR THE LAST CALL FOR CAMP.

Camp Fawcett opens for the Scoutmaster, assistants and other adult leaders on Monday morning, August 4th, for a two day session of leadership training. Leaders are to be the guests of the Council. You will enjoy the fellowship of men whom you will meet there. All troops are urged to have an adult leader or leaders in camp those two days.

Scouts will be expected at camp Wednesday morning, August 6th. Fellows, it will be different this year—new mess hall, kitchen, store room and everything; new arrangement of tents, and new camp fire location. Come to camp and have eight days full of fun! There will be something doing that you will enjoy every hour of the day. We will have a new cook, with two assistants, on the job every hour of the day.

A rule has been made by the National Camping Committee that no Scout, who is not registered, will be allowed to come to camp. If your troop charter has expired, do everything in your power to get your troop re-registered before camp opens; however, if you cannot do this, bring your fee of fifty cents to camp and register there.

Chief Red Eagle will have lots of thrilling stories, and there will be lots of Scouting for the lad who wants to advance in the program.

Money couldn't buy the leadership—the fine men who will pal with you in the Scout camp. Their services are given freely for your benefit.

Every Scout should have a camp folder, either through the mail, or from your Scoutmaster or troop committee chairman, telling you all about camp.

This is your camp property. It is for your pleasure, and you cannot enjoy it unless you come to camp. We will look for you Wednesday morning, Scouts. A fine lunch will be steaming hot as you roll into camp at the noon hour.

Campingly yours,
H. B. PALMER.

ATHLETE SOON REGAINS HEALTH BY NEW KONJOLA

Baseball Player Suffering from Rheumatism and Other Ailments Finds Prompt Relief

MR. JACK M. LONG.

"For over two years I suffered from rheumatism," said Mr. Jack M. Long, 511 Burnett street, Ft. Worth. "My legs and back were affected so much that I could not carry on my work as a baseball player. Finally I was forced to remain in my home for three months. I had attacks of indigestion and my kidneys gave me no end of trouble; the pains in my back were terrible. I was forced to rise many times nightly and became very nervous."

"I tried many remedies without result when a friend recommended Konjola. After taking seven bottles, I was able to resume my work in the K. I. C. League as a ball player. The rheumatic pains have completely vanished and my stomach is in perfect condition. My kidneys are again normal and I do not have to rise at night. The pains have left my back and my nerves are strong. Konjola restored me to perfect health."

Although many men and women state that one or two bottles brought relief, it is recommended that six or eight bottles be taken to obtain results.

Konjola is sold in Hondo, Texas, at W. H. Windrow's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

TIPS ON SHEEP.

Appearances are often deceiving and a rank growth of soft pasture grass may seem to be good feed for sheep when it is not. The sheep raiser should judge the condition of his flock by feeling the condition of the loin or back of the sheep. Ewes in lambs, especially, should be kept gaining steadily throughout the fall and winter. In open wet falls there is danger of waiting too long to start feeding.

HELPING THE SCOUT.

An old man going a lone highway
Came at the evening cold and gray
To a chasm, vast and deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim—
The sullen stream had no fear for him;
But he turned when safe on the other side
And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near.
"You are wasting your strength with building here;
Your journey will end with the ending day,
You never again will pass this
way;
You've crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build you this bridge at even-tide?"

The builder lifted his old gray head,
"Good friend, in the path I've come," he said,
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this
way;
This chasm that has been as naught
to me,
To that fair haired youth may a pitfall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight
dim—
Good friend, I'm building this bridge for him."

—Anonymous.
When parents will guard their children against the chasms that come up in their young lives, and make the "bridge" secure then we may expect stronger youth and a better citizen.
The words of Edgar A. Guest in the poem "You Are the Fellow" will be appropriate and acceptable and come to fruition.

You are the fellow who has to decide Whether you'll do it or toss it aside,
You are the fellow who makes up your mind
Whether you'll lead or will linger behind,
Whether you'll try for the goal that's afar
Or be contented to stay where you are Take it or leave it. Here's something to do!
But think it over, it's all up to you.

What do you wish? To be known as a shirk?
Or known as a good man who's willing to work?
Turned for a loafer or praised by your chief;
Rich man or poor man; beggar or thief;
Sage and earnest or dull through the day;
Honest or crooked? It's you who must say.
You must decide in the face of the test.
Whether you'll shirk it or give it your best.

Who here will compel you to rise;
Who will force you to open your eyes;
Who will answer for you, yes or no,
Whether to stay there or whether to go.
It is a game, but it's you who must say.
Better as cheat or as sportsman you'll play.
He may betray you, but you settle first.
Better to live to your best or to do your worst.

Whatever it is you are wanting to be,
Remember to fashion the choice you are free!
Noble or selfish, gentle or strong,
Following the right way or taking the wrong, Pursing of honor or guarding your pride,
These are the questions you must decide,
Choose the selection, whichever you do;
The thing men call character's all up to you.

Hence the commission to the Scout
To do the things that you should, do
The best that you can,
To live your life with your deeds—
Be a red-blooded man."

And remember as you mingle with men, do your daily turn for suffering humanity, bringing sunshine into the lives of the distressed, and lifting the burdens of the oppressed, that your life will be blessed, and accord-

A THOUGHT FOR SUNDAY

by AMOS R. WELLS.

WANTED: MORE PLEDGES.

A soldier, brought into a District of Columbia police court on a charge of intoxication, declared that if the judge would give him a chance he would never touch strong drink again. The judge gave him the chance. He bade him raise his right hand and solemnly swear that he would keep from intoxicating liquors for the next two years. The soldier was earnest in the matter, and God grant that he may keep his pledge.

It is high time for a new pledge-signing campaign in this country; a campaign that will summon all American manhood and womanhood to resist the devil's temptations of drunkenness. Only human will power, reinforced by the strength of the Almighty can withstand the craft of the arch-deceiver.

And in many more matters than intoxicants we need to exalt our pledges. If we are church members, we have taken solemn pledges upon us. Are we true to them? Do we even remember what they were? If we are married, we have made some vital and sacred vows. Are we true to them? In many other relations we have entered into agreements. Is our word as good as our bond? Have we foresworn ourselves before our God?
"Take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth."

Read PSALM 119: 41-48.
(Copyrighted by Christian Herald)
ward making life worth while,
That costs the least and does the most is just a pleasant smile.
The smile that bubbles from the heart, that loves its fellowman, Will drive away the clouds of gloom and coax the sun again.
Its full of worth and goodness too,
with human kindness blent—
It's worth a million dollars, and it doesn't cost a cent.

There is no room for sadness where we see a cheery smile;
It always has the same good luck—
it's never out of style
It naves us on to try again when failure makes us blue;
The dimples of encouragement are good for me and you.
It pays a higher interest, for it is merely lent—
It's worth a million dollars, and it
doesn't cost a cent.

A smile comes easily enough, a twinkle in the eye
Is natural and does more good than any long-drawn sigh;
It touches on the heartstrings till they quiver blithe and long And always leaves an echo that is very like a song;
So, smile away! Folks understand what by a smile is meant It's worth a million dollars, and it
doesn't cost a cent.

And in closing this story in poems,
let the admonition of the "Idealist" by Arnold be a sermon to the Scout of today, when he says:
I'm telling you, boy, though I'm old and gray,
And though years and friends have passed away,
And sorrow and hate have eaten my heart,
And 'twas bitter for lovers and friends to part,
Though failure has dimmed the glory of years,
And death has chilled us with grief
and tears,
I'm telling you, boy, hold fast to the truth
And keep the ideals that you loved in your youth,
As long as you hold to the spirit of joy,
As long as you live as the ambitious boy,
As long as you view the world through bright eyes,
So long will you triumph over dark,
clouded skies,
The spirit of youth, the ideals of the young,
From such forever have heroic deeds sprung;
And with all the pain, corruption and lies,
Love in the spirit of youth never dies.

A lot of foolish folks today
To put on style, keep up display,
Are spending every cent they make,
No heed of future needs they take.
When sickness comes, with money gone,
Or old age comes a-creeping on,
Alas! they'll find their substance spent,
With naught to pay their keep or rent.

is time a change should be made in that official position of the County.

It is my purpose, in making the not only try, but improve our public roads of my precinct, without favor or hope of reward, and to economi-ances of the County, provided the voters and tax payers will so honor me with their support.

Hence I am asking all voters in in my integrity and ability to fill the fice of County Commissioner of Pre-at the general election to be held in November, 1930.

During the time I have served as your County Commissioner I have always endeavored to safeguard the interests of the Taxpayers and to render efficient and faithful service, and if elected again I shall continue to execute the trust imposed in me to the very best of my ability. I will greatly appreciate your influence and support.

Respectfully,
H. F. BUSS.

For Commissioner Precinct No. 3

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for Commissioner of Precinct No. 3, and if elected pledge myself to a faithful and economical administration of the affairs of the office. Your vote and support is earnestly solicited.

ALFRED NESTER.

I hereby respectfully announce myself for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Precinct No.
3, of Medina County, Texas, at the November general election.

During the time I have had the honor of serving as County Commissioner it has been my earnest endeavor to do my full duty and to render fair and impartial service to every taxpayer. If re-elected I shall continue to fulfill the duties of the office to the very best of my ability.

I wish to again thank the voters of Precinct No. 3 for the honor conferred upon me and to assure one

DIED.

Mr. Henry F. Wurzbach died Saturday evening, July 19, 1930, at the Santa Rosa Infirmary at San Antonio, where he had undergone a serious operation a few days previous.

Deceased was born January 10, 1871. On May 16, 1894, he was happily married to Miss Frances Schuchart. Their union was blessed with six children, three sons, Alvin J. Wurzbach of New Haven, Conn., Milton H. and Ellis O. Wurzbach of Cliff, and three daughters, Mesdames A. N. Steidle of Jourdan, A. N. Mangolf of Cliff and N. E. Mansfield of San Antonio. Besides his grief-stricken widow and children he is survived by eight grandchildren, one brother, Mr. Otto Wurzbach, of Cliff; two sisters, Mesdames Albert Bippert of Natalia and Mrs. F. A. Tuerpe of Benton; and a large number of other near and dear relatives to mourn his untimely demise. Mr. Wurzbach held many offices of trust in Medina County. He was at one time County Commissioner of Precinct No. 2; was president of the Medina-San Geronimo Telephone Co.; director of the Medina County Fair Association; served on the Medina County Board of Education for many years; was connected with the Live Stock Sanitary Commission and at the time of his demise was president of the Lutheran Zion's congregation at Castroville. He was a member of the Woodmen of the World, Sons of Herman, Lions Club, Fredericksburg Mutual Aid, and an honorary member of the Old Trail Drivers Association of San Antonio.

His corpse was brought to the Lutheran parsonage Tuesday evening where it was viewed for the last time by hundreds of relatives and friends. Funeral services were rendered in English by Rev. E. Knapp of San Antonio, assisted by Rev. Kralic of the local Lutheran Church, Wednesday morning and then the mortal remains were taken to the new Zion's cemetery and tenderly laid to rest there. Pallbearers were R. J. Noonan, J. M. Finger, Jacob Stein, Aug. Bongers, Wm. Santleben and Kirk Talley. A good man has gone to his reward. Deceased was a devout Christian, a dutiful husband and father, a law abiding citizen, a kind and accommodating neighbor always ready to lend a helping hand, beloved and esteemed by one and all who were fortunate enough to come in contact with him. One of the largest processions of mourning relatives and friends escorted the mortal remains to his last resting place. We join this

TREAT THE BABY CHICK RIGHT.

"There is no sense in this idea so many people have, that you have to figure on losing a big percentage of your baby chicks," says P. F. Clardy, former president of the American Chick Producers Association and for thirty-five years a practical poultry raiser.

"Start with good vigorous chicks from healthy stock, properly hatched in modern incubators. Give them the right kind of care and feed, protect them from chilly winds and rains and from vermin and rodents, and there is no reason why you should not raise practically every baby chick to a successful and profitable maturity.

"In all my years of experience, I have found that aside from the very important factor of starting with a quality chick in the first place, the most important thing in making sure of success in poultry raising is to give the birds the care they are entitled to. Too many people neglect baby chicks either through ignorance or carelessness. A baby chick is a tiny bit of life and naturally needs good care; and how it will grow when once it gets a start!

"I have found that sanitation, or strict attention to keeping the living quarters of poultry absolutely clean is a great big help. Filth spreads disease! Cleanliness opposes it. Keep the poultry quarters spick and span and you won't have much trouble from disease. Of course undue exposure must be guarded against also.

"I used to think that no one could buy feeds as good as home-mixed. Now I have changed my mind. For twenty-five years I used my own feed formula and thought that I was master of feeds and feed mixing; but at the end of a quarter of a century I awoke to the fact that scientists and research had gained a stride on me and that scientifically developed formulas, using food elements, calories and vitamins as the basis, were worth more to the industry than mere practice and experiment. I say now, let the poultryman leave the feed problem to the feed experts and devote his time and attention to the proper care of his own flocks.

"The Chinese plan of insuring public health works well in the poultry yard. So long as the Chinese doctor keeps his patients well, he gets his pay regularly. Whenever they become ill, his pay stops until he makes them well again. Consider yourself your poultry doctor. So long as your birds are well and thrifty they will make profits for you; consequently it is to your interest to keep them well all the time."

Left over egg yolks have many uses. They are a valuable source of iron and so should always be utilized. They may be hard-cooked in the double boiler, mashed and seasoned for sandwich filling. Raw or hard-cooked egg yolks make a good foundation for salad dressing. Several can be made with the yolks only, and good egg sauces for fish and meat soft custard for dessert is still another use. Pastry trimmings, cut out like cookies, brushed with egg yolk, sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon or sugar and grated orange rind, and baked, make delicious tea cakes.

If every one in the family would resolve to try to eat without objection all ordinary foods not highly seasoned or of unusual flavor, if well cooked and appetizingly served, many food prejudices would vanish and the housekeeper's problems would be reduced. An understanding of properly balanced diet will help dispel many prejudices and make it possible to set a varied yet economical table.

Keep milk in bottles with cap on until used. If possible, as soon as milk arrives, place in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Provide a shelter box for early deliveries. Wash caps and mouths of bottles before pouring out milk. For best results the temperature of the ice box should be 45° F. or below, constantly.
